

Family conflict is perhaps the biggest issue that faces young people and family breakdown is a major cause of homelessness.

If you think you might lose your home due to:

- Family conflict
- Family or friends no longer letting you stay
- Family breakdown

We can refer you to our family mediation scheme run by St Basils Prevention Centre.

The mediator can:

- Work with you if you are still living at home to resolve conflict
- Help you return home, or arrange a short term return until you find somewhere else to stay
- Help to improve relationships with people who are important to you when you have left home

St Basils Family Mediation Service offer one to one meetings, family meetings and support in between if needed.

If you think mediation could help you, contact us for more information.
